Statement on conflict minerals

As a metal part producer we are aware of the seriousness of conflict materials originating from the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC).

We have studied documents and contacted all our raw material providers that might use tantalum, tin, gold and/or tungsten to the functionality or production of their products, in an effort to determine whether or not these elements originate from the DRC or an adjoining country.

We conclude from our inquiry that we do not knowingly buy any of the before mentioned elements originating from conflict zones.
